tari the word originated from Japan. It is a polite warning to the enemy that they are about to be engulfed.

Interesting... so "Atari" was warning meaning that they were about to be engulfed. I think it is interesting that the Atari symbol was based off the shape of mount Fuji (or otherwise called a "fuji") and that the name came from a Japanese word and was an American company. So where did all the Japanese imfulence come from?

The word 'atari' actually comes from a term from the old Chinese game Go. The name the company originally wanted to use was Szyguzy (spelling may be off on that one), but that was already taken. Bushnell was a big fan of Go, and took the name from that game. As to the rest of Japan's influence, I don't know.

What the hell is Spaceblast and Espial???

I've never heard of these, they gotta be rares....

that coleco collector asked if they were, and I think they are.

Who made them?? They're not on my lists.....

and on a personal note, does anyone have Ikari Warriors or Pete Rose Baseball for 7800.

I am looking hard for those titles.

That, and I could use a Kung-Fu Master for 2600 that will actually work, cause mine crashes after level 3.....

The xl and xe series are compatible. All equipment can be used for both of them. The differencies are the design (the xl design is the older one) and the operating systems revisions. All of this equipment and most of the software is also compatible to the Atari 800 and 400.

14. Atari Emulation Question

Yahoo group: atariuniverse
Date: 2001-05-22 21:53:39 UTC
From: sixosix_2000
Topic: 1 Message: 14

Hello-

I think the emulators for the Atari 8bit have been a wonderful feat of software genius for those who cannot obtain Ataris or simply do not want wear and tear.
I now have some games that I still cannot finish and would love to see if the endings are special. For example, my friend and I have been struggling with Shamus for years now (silly, I know).
Does anyone have any plans for a Cheat finder (like MAME) or a hex entry interface for any existing or future Atari 8bit emus?
Any input on this is greatly appreciated.

Peace,
Sixosix

I just got a Atari Jaguar from Game in Nottingham ? strange at this shop it going agest the Playstation2 / Playstation , Dreamcast ,Nintendo 64 & Windows PC's games for people cash ?
Is this the come back for the Jaguar or just selling old stock.
I wonder how it sells vs Playstation 2 in Game & EB shops who sell it ?

Sadly, the Jag games are virtually non-existent here in the southern US states. I have asked and most shop owners do not know what I am asking about.

Ebay has been my best bet so far.

The local shop here in Columbia has plenty of Jags and games, even Protector, but you have to PAY for them. AvP is $90, Protector $80, Missle Command $60, etc. They sell the new Jags themselves for $40, with most games at $15.

My Game TV debuts this week!

It's what gamers have been waiting for!

The brand new video game review show, MyGameTV, will air its first episode this Saturday, February 7.

MyGameTV hosts, Derek and JC will show you all of the hot and not so hot in the gaming community. This includes the latest cheats, original commentary (picture Siskel & Ebert on crack), and the best advice on what and what not to buy.

The show will broadcast locally in Central Florida on Brighthouse Channel 10, however the show aims to have a global reach. That's why we're going to have each episode available online. Just join the fanclub to view the online episodes.

Visit www.mygametv.com for for info!

It could be possible, there is a petition online to get him one, and why shouldnt he get a star, they're some "stars" that get a spot that dont deserve it. the petition is at http://www.petitionspot.com/petitions/walkoffame .

my very first game system wasnt the atari (sniff, sniff) but the odessey. it was like a 'press-button' keyboard and console to put the games in. it hooked up to the television. but be that as it is, the atari will always be the godfather of the video games. people can dis all the consoles out on the market today but once they start ripping atari, thats just wrong. no company/system/game today cant get away without giving the atari its due.

ive had the 2600 and 7800 models but never the 5600. my games included: pac-man, ms pac-man, jr pac-man, joust, asteroids, asteroids deluxe, space invaders, centipede, pole position 1 + 2, food fight, fire fighter, empire strikes back, robotron, phoenix, atlantis, sky jinks, defender, etc...

i may not have the system anymore but i know where i can get it along with a few games.

my lips are sealed.
